

Mutually Exclusive Part I

KevinSilvia.net

I feel like our lives have been riddled by so many conflicts we'll never recover
Separate ideas that were sound but completely opposed & against one another
Two truths that are obviously ones that we can't deny
But when you compare them together they each make the other one look like a lie

I learned early on about peace and of passive resistance toward hate and aggression

I heard it from Christ and from others who only view Jesus as just an obsession

Love of your enemy leads to a freedom within undeniably right

Then on the other hand we've been reminded that freedom's great price is a fight
